Also singing in the concerts will be the Treble Clef Trio. Dr. Perry will be traveling with this choir giving "Greetings from Olivet."

Snowbarger In Ohio

Dr. Snowbarger left ONC April 4th to act as coordinator at four different colleges. Thursday, April 5, he was at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio; and Friday, April 6, he was at Bluffton College, Bluffton, Ohio. Then on Monday, April 9, he visited Malone College, Canton, Ohio; and Tuesday, April 10, visited Ashland College, Ashland, Ohio.

While he was in Ohio he formed an Olivet Alumni Chapter at Columbus on April 7. Dean Snowbarger visited two of our churches April 8, Wooster church in the morning and Mansfield church in the evening. Dr. Snowbarger returned to campus Wednesday, April 11.

'SCRIPTURAMA' RESULTS

The winner of the "Scripturama" finals held Friday, April 6, was the Northwest Indiana District.

Contestants were quizzed over the book of Luke. The double elimination contest ended with four wins and one loss by both the Northwest Indiana team and the Minnesota team. In the playoff, the Minnesota team lost by the equivalent of one-half question.

Dr. Reed presented the team a plaque, and Rev. D. Millikan, the general chairman of the contest, presented each member of the team a gold plated key.

The "Scripturama" is to be an annual affair. Top contestants of each district will receive a $200 scholarship to Olivet.

OLIVET RECEIVES TWO GIFTS

The W. K. Kellogg Foundation has granted Olivet Nazarene College $10,000 for the purchase of books to improve the quality of its teacher preparation program, and to increase the effectiveness of its library services. The purchases are to be made over a three-year period.

Also, a $5,000 grant was made to Olivet by Illinois Bell Telephone Company, to apply on the new science building.

Spring brings warmer weather and a disease called "spring fever," but on Olivet's campus it also brings a time of "politicking" — the annual student body elections. Monday, April 23, marks the beginning of this year's campaign, in which the student body will elect its 1962-63 Associated Students' president, treasurer, and secretary.

As this issue went to press, the nominations for these offices had not been made, nor had the parties been selected.

The actual nominating for these three offices is traditionally done by the Student Council. Two candidates are named for each position, and are placed in one of two political parties by a flip of a coin. Party names are selected later by the party personnel.

Each candidate must meet with Dr. Harold Reed for his approval; each nominee must possess an acceptable scholastic average; each must obtain approval from the other administrative offices (Dean of College, Dean of Students, etc.); and each candidate must contribute an equal share of money to his party to be used for campaign purposes. The object of this last qualification is to provide both parties with equal campaign funds.

Traditionally, candidates are of current junior standing, although this is not compulsory. However, the nominees for Treasurer must have at least one year's credit in

Mitchell, Rice Attend Conference

Bob Mitchell and Blaine Rice recently attended a conference of the American Association of Evangelical Students, held at Greenville college.

Mitchell and Rice, sent by the student council, participated in the conference from April 4-7, during which "workshops" and general discussions were the primary concerns of the day.

Topics dealt with were as follows: "The Christian Mind and Leadership," "The Christian Student and Race Relations," "The Christian Mind and Human Relations," "The Christian Mind and AAES," "The Christian Mind and Contemporary Mind."

The AAES is an organization for Christian liberal arts colleges and Bible schools in America, composed of 20 institutions.

Each year at the national convention, the assembly approves 2 national projects, which currently are: "Christianity Answers Communaccounting.

This year's campaign procedure will be much the same as last year's. Following is a run-down of the election week, April 23-27.

Monday: 8:00 a.m. — Campaign officially opens with both parties occupying their headquarters.

Tuesday: All Day — Preparations for the campaign.

Midnight — Signs will go up. Each party is to choose ten people plus the three candidates and one campaign manager, making a total of fourteen to place signs on campus.

Wednesday: 9:30-10:10 — Each party will have twenty minutes to present campaign speeches and its platform in chapel.

10:20 — Each party will have a designated area in which to hold a short rally.

Afternoon — Afternoon rallies must start after 2:30.

Evening — Each party will have a special place to hold a rally after prayer meeting.

Thursday: Morning — Each party will again have a specific spot to stage its rally following chapel.

Evening — Parades and rallies will be held, but must not begin before 8:30.

Friday: Election Day — Polls will be open from 8:00 a.m. until 8:00 p.m.

The results of the election will be posted immediately after the counting of the ballots at 8:00 p.m.

On Monday, April 30, acceptance and pledge of support speeches will be given in chapel.

AMERICA'S PALLBEARERS

By Emory Daniels

"Give me liberty or give me death," but do not give me the responsibility liberty demands. Is this the mode of our modern Patrick Henrys? Is this the creed of American citizens? If America has a responsible citizenship, there are few apparent signs to confirm it.

To maintain our democratic form of government, public opinion must be fully understood by the government. If the people do not tell Uncle Sam what they want, then he must guess or act according to his judgement. To leave the protection and safety of your family, or future family, in the hands of a few, without expressing your wishes, is not a mark of responsibility.

But this is precisely what we are doing today. Less than 50% of the eligible voters had enough concern for the future of their country or for the welfare of their family to go to the polls last November. Of those who did vote, I would venture that less than half did any amount of research to determine who the best candidate actually was. At the state level, popular participation in politics was even less. A state could go bankrupt and still less than half of the voters would have cast a vote in the prior election.

There are many men who will curse the government for high taxes and unnecessary spending, yet they think they can not afford to lose a day's pay to go to the polls. Women who shed tears when their sons enter military service will not shed the burden of the day's ironing to vote. A complaint must be anchored down with a vote to have enough weight to be considered.

Henrik Ibsen once said, "A community is like a ship; every one ought to be prepared to take the helm." Are we as students preparing to take the helm of America's state?

The Revolutionary War was fought to give us the right to voice our choice; the right to vote was extended after much blood was shed in the Civil War. World Wars I and II were fought to give peoples of other nations the advantage of the ballot. Now are we willing to exchange all these lives to maintain our lethargy? The gains of yesterday's heroes are being effaced by the flood of today's irresponsibility.

Columnists like Henry Taylor have been writing that the United States is on the brink of financial disaster, which is supported by facts, yet the Gallup Polls show that the Kennedy administration is gaining popularity. President Kennedy has so committed himself that he has had to ask Congress to lift the 289 billion dollar debt limit. America has a larger debt limit today than any other nation in the history of the world; yet Kennedy has proposed a 92.5 billion dollars budget, which will cost the taxpayers 20% more than a year ago. This increase in the national budget will mean that one out of every ten tax dollars will be spent for the interest on our past debt.

Our gold supply is at a 22-year low; the signs of inflation are evident everywhere. The fact that our national economy is in a precarious state is not, however, my greatest concern; what worries me is the indifference of the people. It is this indifference that led Khrushchev to predict, "Your grandchildren will grow up under Communism."

If irresponsibility remains, communism will reign; there is no other alternative. America can not remain half dedicated, half indifferent. She will divide and fall with the despots of the world grasping her remains. As citizens in the near future we have two choices—to be flag-bearers or pallbearers, to set a course or be a corpse.

Intramural Literary Music

On the evening of March 16, another Intramural Literary-Music contest took place in Burke Recital Hall.

Judges for the contest in the music division were professors Jewell Flaughner and Irving Kranich. The division of speech was judged by professors Vivian Musnug and Donna Jean Holzhauer. Master of Ceremonies for the evening's event was Tom Judd, president of the Sigma Society.

In the division of music, first place for vocal solo was won by Sigma Society with Ruthmarie Eimer singing "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," Verdi. Second place went to Kappa with Ann Blevins singing "Gebet der Elizabeth," Wagner. Third place was taken by Gamma with Sharon Sanders singing "One Fine Day," Puccini.

First place for instrumental solo was taken by Zeta with Robert Phillips playing a clarinet solo, "Adagio-Tarantella," Cavalinni. Second place went to Gamma with Mary Ahleman playing a piano solo, "Voiles," Debussée. Third place went to Kappa with Dwight McMurrin playing a piano solo, "Memories of Childhood," Octavio Pinto.

For the average person the federal budget is a closed book. When he reads that the government will spend $92.5 billion in fiscal year 1963 it leaves him not only cold, but numb. No one can grasp the real meaning of one billion dollars, to say nothing of 90-odd billion.

Let's deal with some of the unfounded reasons that have been given in support of the present immense total of our money that Uncle Sam plans to spend. Let's call them budget myths.

MYTH 1. The budget rise has been caused by national defense spending.

Since 1955, spending for major national security has risen by $12 billion while nondefense spending has gone up by $16 billion in the same time.

MYTH 2. We can afford it.

From 1955 through 1963 the government will have spent $25 billion more than was collected in revenues. No family, and no business, could afford to operate that way.

MYTH 3. The people have demanded more spending.

The popular demand for spending has never been tested, let alone proved, in a straight-out question to the people.

MYTH 4. There is urgent need for more federal spending.

It is pure myth that the Federal government has an obligation to pay for public improvements or even to help pay for them. The government has no money except what it takes from the people.

MYTH 5. Government spending promotes economic growth.

This is the grand-daddy of all myths and fallacies about government spending. When government takes more private income—that is, when tax collections are increased—the people spend less and government spends more.

Bits By Mitch

There are many roads by which private citizens may approach the consideration of international understanding. Some are: knowledge, emotion and imagination. A positive approach has been devised to promote this understanding through the international conferences sponsored by various organizations in America and abroad. The main purpose of these conferences is to stimulate the concept of interest to a better understanding of the cultural, economic, social, religious, and political evolution in other countries outside the United States.

It is entirely up to us, college and university students, to focus our search for the treasure of international knowledge, not only on text books, but on the very practical experiences of the many foreign visitors and exchange students in this country. The concept of the international "peaceful co-existence" depends entirely upon our interest, knowledge, and the understanding we hold in problems beyond the framework in which we live.

Educational experts have proved the fact that "education is but a means to an end, and not to end in itself." Therefore, education in college is a self-individual preparation to meet the world with courage. Where democracy exists, it becomes something deeper than liberty — It is a responsibility in itself. History has proved the fact that nations are being built anew, but patience, tolerance and a better understanding of the world in which we live are three major necessities, without which our goals are dim.

The main theme in all the conferences I have attended stressed the necessity for college education as a powerful asset for promoting world peace. In my New York conference a few months ago, we dealt with the foreseeable

LETTER

Dear Editor:

My experience while attending a conference on international affairs at Purdue university a few weeks ago has convinced me that more Olivetians should attend such intercollegiate conferences. Student attendance profits their school, challenge the students and edifies their Saviour.

Large and small institutions and groups everywhere are spending millions each year to send delegates, and promote conferences and conventions. This in itself seems to suggest that there is real value in conference participation. The profits of conferences in their discussion of points of mutual interest and concern is probably as unmeasurable as are the varied experiences gained by the participants. It seems certain that any college could not help but realize valuable benefit in a student body that has broadened its horizons of knowledge, interest and concern through its whole-hearted participation in appropriate intercollegiate conferences.

The students themselves, while profiting directly from the matters under discussion, would receive at the same time a valuable challenge to further reading, and deeper investigation in their fields of study. Comparisons of experiences, and attainments with associates and future colleagues would also be a challenging experience to many mediocre Christian students.

Very worthwhile, is the unique opportunity that such conferences give the students of the Christian college to witness for Christ.

In the midst of hundreds of searching minds and hearts, their opportunities to point other students toward the Living God will be limited only by their own inhibitions and abilities.

Carroll Keith Roose

Dear Editor:

In I Corinthians 9:22, Paul says "I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some."

For a Christian student this must become a part of our philosophy of education.

It implies two factors in Christian education. First, we must learn humility so that we will be able to eat with the publicans and sinners and thereby lead them to Christ. This also implies that we must strive to develop our intellect to the fullest. Knowledge is not an end in itself. But knowledge for the sake of leading others into a personal relationship with Christ is a goal to be striven for by every Christian to whom the opportunity is afforded.

One cannot expect to achieve academic excellence in all areas, but he can achieve it in his own field. Through this knowledge he will find a common ground upon which to meet and to witness to those of like in-

Comments on Politics

P.S. From Texas—Every Town's Entitled To See Red

By ART BUCHWALD

SOMEWHERE IN TEXAS—After lecturing in many parts of the United States, the one thing that has struck us is how vigilant every community has become towards the problem of communism. There hasn't been a town we've hit on our tour that doesn't have at least four organizations working night and day to repel the Communist threat in the United States, which, as all vigilantes know, is getting more serious as each United Nations session goes by.

Unhappily, while there are more and more organizations being formed to fight Communists in the United States, there are less and less Communists around to fight, and the anti-Communist organizations are fighting among themselves over who has a right to fight the Communists. Many of the smaller towns, particularly in the South, have the strongest anti-Communist organizations despite the fact that they are so far off the beaten track that many of them have never seen a Communist.

In Waco, Tex., for example, the nearest card-holding Communist Party member lives in Dallas, 100 miles away, and while Waco stands at the ready to repulse the infidel, the Communist Party member has been warned not to leave Dallas as the anti-Communist organizations there claim since he lives in Dallas he belongs to them.

Sarasota, Fla., seems to have the same problem. The threat of the Communists' taking over Sarasota hangs heavy over the heads of some of the leaders of that beautiful city and the printing presses are grinding out tons of papers warning of the impending invasion.

In the meantime, members of the Communist Party keep passing up Sarasota, preferring to spend their winters in Palm Beach.

It's true that most of the ultraconservative anti-Communists are not as concerned with attacking Communists as they are with attacking people who are not Communists but who disagree with the anti-Communists.

But this leads to complications because, when you get past the names of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief Justice Earl Warren, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and Adlai E. Stevenson, no one can agree on who else represents a threat.

Therefore rather than drive the Communist Party underground, which isn't helping anyone, we think the Communist Party members should be redistributed around the country so that every town can have at least one. Having a Communist of their very own would make the anti-Communists less frustrated and they wouldn't be fighting among themselves over who is and who is not a Communist.

The Communist who is willing to move to one of these towns would be well paid by the anti-Communist organizations who have so much money to spend that they would pay anything to get a Communist to live in their town. So everyone would be happy.

It's the only solution to the terrible Communist shortage in the United States, and while the big cities might object to losing their Communists we think the smaller communities have a right to have some Communists, too.

Christian Concepts

By Larry Reinhart

We have recently been blessed with a very inspiring and challenging series of meetings. Many have renewed their covenants with the Lord, and are determined to serve Him. Certainly we are interested in what the Lord expects of a servant of His.

Peter tells us in I Peter 2:21: "For ever hereunto were ye called, because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example that ye should follow His steps."

Following requires a heart which is true and devoted. We are not forced to follow, but must do so out of a desire to be of service. This must come from within a person who knows for a fact that he has, in his own heart, met the conditions. A vague "hand-me-down" experience will not do, but there must be a personal experience. A definite relationship with the Lord is an experience which we must have, and about which we must witness to others.

All sincere and honest believers must seek to know more about the way the Saviour would have them live, if they are to remain true to God. This is a personal matter and cannot be patterned after the lives of others, or from the wishes of the individual. Studying the Holy Scriptures and praying constantly for guidance are our responsibilities. Most important of all, we must be willing to accept all that the Lord has for us and not reject the truth as it is revealed to us.

Christ commanded His disciples to witness to the world, and declared in Matthew 5:14: "Ye are the light of the world." We must be determined that we are going to be true to proclaiming the a poster, and news stories about the college.

Many churches are inviting student and faculty members to participate in the services.

Dr. Demaray's Book

Dr. C. E. Demaray is presently writing a book on the Pastoral Epistles that is to be part of a forty-volume set. He was approached five years ago to write on this project and has been working on it since then.

The book of the Pastoral Epistles will be the 35th volume of the Evangelical Bible Commentary. The commentary is sponsored by the editorial committee at Asbury Seminary at Wilmore, Kentucky. The editor-in-chief, Dr. George Turner, hopes to have three volumes done next year, four in 1964, and four in each following year until the set is completed.

Dr. Demaray plans to conclude his edition and hand it to the publishers next year so that it may be made available to the public in 1964.

Two volumes of this series message we hold dear to our hearts. Certainly the world is desperately in need of hearing about the wonderful work the Lord is able to perform. We dare not be silent for fear we will not be accepted.

It is not enough to withdraw and merely hold our own, but we must let others know of the wonderful saving and sanctifying power of God. We may not always know all the answers, but a sincere effort to follow the example of our Saviour will lead us to teaching others and telling them of Him.

have already been published; one on Mark by Dr. Ralph Earle, and the other on the book of Acts written by Dr. C. W. Carter and Dr. Earle. The book on Acts is now being used at Olivet in two classes in Acts.

Dr. Demaray's experiences have qualified him for this assignment. He has taught New Testament Greek for forty years and Biblical literature for twenty-two years. Eighteen years ago he joined Olivet's staff as chairman of the Bible Literature Department, a position he still holds. Dr. Demaray is also chairman of the Division of Languages and Literature.

Dr. Demaray assisted in the writing of Exploring the Old Testament, which was finished in 1955. He has received several invitations to write since then, but has not committed himself since this present writing task takes up much of his time.

The annual Ministerial Fellowship Banquet was held April 7, 1962, in the Kankakee Hotel. An excellent meal of fried chicken was enjoyed.

President Norman Brown presided and introduced the speaker for the evening, evangelist Ross Emerick. A special solo was presented by Karen Swinehart.

Among the more than fifty guests present were: Dr. and Mrs. Reed, Rev. and Mrs. Emerick, and Dr. and Mrs. Perry.

Here are some first impressions present Olivetians had when they came to visit as motorcaders:

Roger Rupp — First impressions last—and that was a guy walking on the window sill getting a jug of cider.

Dave Johnson—I liked the food the best.

Karen Glancy — Out with Flierman.

Linda Beatty — I thought the campus was SO big.

Paul Thompson — Typical motorcade day . . . it was pouring down rain.

Nancy Rhodes — Hearing college students testifying and praising God in Student Prayer Band impressed me most.

June Lee — I was impressed with the friendliness of everyone.

Steve Stutz — My motorcade was hardly long enough to gather my thoughts about the campus.

Mary Bleavins — Pretty shocked when I saw all the kids out in front of Williams Hall about 10 o'clock.

Jerry Smith — I can't remember it was too long ago.

Bill Shaw — College life okay, and a big chance for excitement.

Diane Kjonas — When I saw it I decided I was going to O.N.C.

Steve Gladding — It looked awfully romantic then, but now . . .

Elwyn Poe—It didn't really impress me nor disappoint me.

Sondra Forsyth — I had feelings of confusion, uncertainty and at times felt lost.

Peggy Oliver—I was afraid of the big college kids!

Senior Recital Leary, Halverson

The joint recital of Marilyn Leary and Dave Halverson was given April 17, at 8:00 p.m., in the Recital Hall.

Marilyn is originally from Greenfield, Indiana. This summer and next year she will be living in Muncie, Indiana. She is applying for a public school teaching position in Muncie. Her preference is junior high school.

Dave's home is in Calgary, Alta., Canada. After graduation, he plans to teach music on the secondary level. He also has plans to attend graduate school.

Senior Recital Brown, Mund

The fifth senior recital of the year was given last night by Dixie Brown and Fred Mund.

Dixie is originally from Canton, Ohio. She plans to teach music in junior or senior high school in St. Louis after graduation. Giving harp lessons and working on her Master's in music education are also future aspirations.

Fred, majoring in music education, is from St. Louis, Mo. After graduation, he plans to fill the full time position as music and youth director at the South Side Church of the Nazarene in Muncie, Indiana.

motorcade I was sure.

Larry Watson — I remember Louie and his Radical Party during the student body campaigns.

Donna Gouge — All I can remember was chapel.

Troas Sperling — When I first arrived it was raining and I wondered if it rained here all the time—and now I know.

Judy Maish—Miller Dining Hall.

Connie Farnsworth — Living quarters in Recital Hall were tremendous!

Arlene Milner — So busy thinking we were "it" I don't recall.

Mel Kuhn — Had a lot of fun and loved it.

Dave Godwin — Thought it was pretty big . . . now??

Jim Williams — ??

Walt Ballard — No, I never came but I wished I would have.

SPRING VACATION MUSIC

Spring vacation this year was not a time for relaxation for all Olivet students. Several students traveled throughout our various home churches singing in their respective trios and quartets.

Those who toured the Iowa district were: Sharon Ulmet, freshman from Oskaloosa, Iowa, singing first soprano; Sarah Maddox, freshman from Indianapolis, Ind., singing alto; and Pat Larrison, freshman from New Castle, Ind., singing second soprano and accompanying the group. This singing trio is called the King's Carolaries. Traveling with this group and speaking for the college was Fred Mund.

The Messengers Quartet consisted of: Mike Grimshaw, freshman from Litchfield, Minn., singing second tenor; Laurel Matson, sophomore from Britt, Iowa, singing first tenor; Jim Monck, freshman from Grand Rapids, Mich., singing baritone. The accompaniment was provided by Paul Robbins, freshman from Centerville, Ind. Traveling with this group was Rev. John Swearingen.

Letters to the Editor

Along with academic excellence in a certain area, we must broaden our vision by developing interests in other areas. By this we can begin to understand how contemporary man is thinking. This understanding leads to a more effective witness for Christ.

There are several ways by which a student can broaden his understanding. Diligent study of both past and contemporary writers in all fields helps a person to develop this understanding of man's thinking. Another is through sharing of ideas with other students.

A few days ago it was my privilege to attend the national convention of the American Association of evangelical colleges who are faced with many of the problems that have perplexed me. Through the sharing of ideas concerning these problems we were all helped toward an understanding of the problems facing us.

God has given us the opportunity to develop ourselves intellectually. Let us

W. R. A. TEA

Nesbitt Hall was the scene of much activity Saturday, April 7, between 1:30 and 4:30. All women residents were invited to the annual W.R.A. tea.

As an "extra" there were displays demonstrating correct tablesettings. China and silverware were on loan from Volkmann Jewelers. Mr. Volkmann was there to answer the girls' questions. Flower arrangements were by Percy Florist. Suzanne Wilson, assisted by Nancy Frost, was in charge of the displays.

Katie Leigh supervised food preparation and the tea service. Her committee included: Vicki Parks, Gloria Sprinkle, Sharon Crabtree, Pat Pottenger, Norma Wilson, Marsha Steele, Ladonna Teisinger, Sonnie Hathaway, and JoAnn Palmer.

architecture of the transitional world by which the foundation would be built by we the emerging citizens of a free world. Our sole objective therefore, is to reach that golden age of world peace, both in heart and body.

The highlight of the conference came when the "Pan-African Students Organization in the Americas" announced the report of the survey carried out in various colleges and universities on an international level. In this report they found that many American colleges and universities had provided opportunities on their campuses for the foreign students to exchange ideas freely with the rest of the student body. The establishment of international offices on college campuses was another asset for the channeling of foreign affairs to both student body and the surrounding communities on various campuses.

It is therefore a challenge to us as Olivetians to stimulate and spread within and abroad, the good tidings from this college in the manner of good will, through the extended helping hand of these do so! Not to make knowledge an end in itself, but that "by all means" we might save some.

LADIES' SPORTS JOURNAL

By Evelyn Dorsey

Powder blue with gold letters: Women's "O" Club. The new short-sleeved sweat shirts on campus distinguish Olivet's women athletes. Receiving new vigor from the freshmen, the club has plans for horseback riding, a major league baseball game in Chicago, swimming parties, and a picnic in the park.

There certainly has been no lack of enthusiasm concerning women's sports this year. Volley tennis, a new sport in its second year here, is in full swing. The girls seem to have great fun in this sport, and there is no lack of players for any society. The excited screeches heard coming from the tennis courts each afternoon are probably those of volley tennis enthusiasts!

Enthusiasm for volleyball picked up this year, even bringing out some spectators. The competition was close, with Sigma, Gamma, and Delta fighting for the top. The results of the double-elimination tournament will be reported later.

Twelve girls competed in the table tennis tournament. Sandy Thomas of Sigma won the championship and will receive a trophy this spring. Judy Wilson, also of Sigma, was runners-up.

The basketball season was climaxed by the class tournament, which the Senior women won by dumping the freshmen. The freshmen showed a lot of promise but lacked experience and could not match the desperate determination of the seniors.

international students in co-operating with the christian atmosphere that surrounds us on this campus. It is through our own actions that the good gospel of Olivet College will keep flowing in the years to come.
